CANNES – 'THE RACE OF LOVE' arrives at the Marché du Film of the Cannes Film Festival. The film, a romance, is produced by Enrico Pinocci and directed by Alfio D'Agata, with an international cast: Ciara Hanna ('Stars Fell On Alabama', 'Stars Fell Again', 'Power Rangers Megaforce'), Thomas Gipson ('Love's Fast Lane', 'Burning Little Lies'), Blanca Blanco ('Eye for Eye', 'Betrayed'), Letizia Pinocci ('Mission Possible', '6 Children & 1 Grandfather') and Harmony McElligott ('You Can Do Better', 'Life Whack').

The protagonists of the film are James, who's single by choice, and Judy, whose work makes her relationships difficult and complicated. After a series of coincidences that bring them together, and more than a few twists and turns, their hearts start to open to each other.

It was shot in Los Angeles and around the evocative racetracks of Vallelunga (the main location), Misano, Rio and Monte Carlo.
